BANNED BOOKS WEEK
SEPT 27 - OCT 3, 2020

Your First Amendment rights include the Freedom to READ. During Banned Books Week, celebrate your rights by reading a book that’s been banned or challenged. “Banned Books” are NOT books that it’s illegal for you to read. It’s simply a phrase that means somewhere, at some time, someone requested that a book be removed from a library or school because they didn’t agree with what it was about.

Here are a few books from our stacks that have been challenged at other libraries a lot in the past few years:

George by Alex Gino
The Handmaid's Tale by Margaret Atwood
Harry Potter and the Half-Blood Prince by J.K. Rowling

Library Hours
REGULAR LIBRARY HOURS:
Mon - Thurs: 7:30 am - Midnight
Fridays: 7:30 am - 5 pm
Saturdays: Noon - 5 pm
Sundays: 3 pm - Midnight

Celebrating the Centennial of the 19th Amendment

It was 1920 when women were given the right to vote. On display in the library is a collection of interesting anti-suffrage posters. These images were created by those who were against letting women vote and showed a future based on fear.

Today, as then, those seeking progress must face similar images. Though these pictures can be uncomfortable, they’re a reminder that progress can happen when we work together.
Library Databases are now easier to access on or off-campus!
